BNC Service Restored

Bankruptcy Noticing Center (BNC) resumed service on Monday, October 26, 2026. The BNC began by processing Certificates of Mailing for data collected from the courts on October 7, 2026, resumed mailings for data collected on October 8, 2026, and will concurrently process backlog and newly received court submissions going forward.

Electronic notices will be transmitted as soon as validation is complete, allowing multiple backlog days to be processed simultaneously as capacity permits. Paper notices will be handled separately and released in prioritized waves based on production capacity and mailing readiness.

To address delays caused by the outage, all paper notices generated between October 13 and the present will include the following message on the address page:

> IMPORTANT NOTICE: The enclosed notice(s) may have been sent later than intended because of a service disruption affecting the Bankruptcy Noticing Center. The information in this notice is still valid; but because of the delay, a deadline or response period listed here may have passed, and you may receive an amended notice. Should you have questions regarding a deadline or a response period, please contact your attorney or visit the website of the clerk's office of the court named on this notice.

Users with specific questions regarding BNC notice privacy concerns or the cybersecurity incident may contact BAE Systems directly at ebn@baesystems.us.
